AdaptNSW 2023 Forum

Navigating uncertainty together

Hello,

Anticipation is building for the upcoming AdaptNSW 2023 Forum 'navigating uncertainty together'.

With just over one week to go, spaces are limited, and tickets are selling fast, so please register to make sure you don't miss out.

The program for both days has now been finalised and features over 100 speakers across more than 30 sessions. Join us and connect face-to-face with some of Australia's leading thinkers, with bold presentations and panel discussions, as well as dedicated networking events each day.

Key moments to expect at the AdaptNSW
2023 Forum

With an opening address from the Hon. Penny Sharpe, Minister for Climate Change, this event features a range of inspirational presentations, interactive panel discussions and networking events. Some of the highlights over the 2 days include:

The role of cultural institutions and the arts in responding to climate change

Join us for a discussion about Sydney's key cultural institution's response to climate change - and how they are telling and inspiring new stories.

A creative toolkit for tackling wicked problems

How can organisations harness progressive design tools to drive transformation? This session explores how a life centred design approach can support climate change adaptation.

Restoring connections

The core values of Aboriginal culture emphasise the importance of relationships between everything in Country; the tangible and intangible, including ourselves. In this session, participants will engage in a hands-on activity exploring how our values and relationships are essential to the cultural dimension of climate change adaptation and how, through Aboriginal culture and values, we all are empowered to create a future with Country. Yulaa-li winanga-y.

Our future: youth perspectives on climate change

We know that our youth are at the forefront of the climate crisis. Learn about the importance of listening to their voices and how we can integrate and harness their unique engagement methods to reshape the climate narrative. Be part of this dynamic conversation and see how emerging youth leaders are making a difference in the fight against climate change.
